INTERIOR DESIGN

Introducing the Photo Essay

Here's a sneak peek at one of our new columns to come in 2024. Here, we offer up a beautiful journey through the sketchbooks of five visionaries that show us the importance of "stop and take a look around."

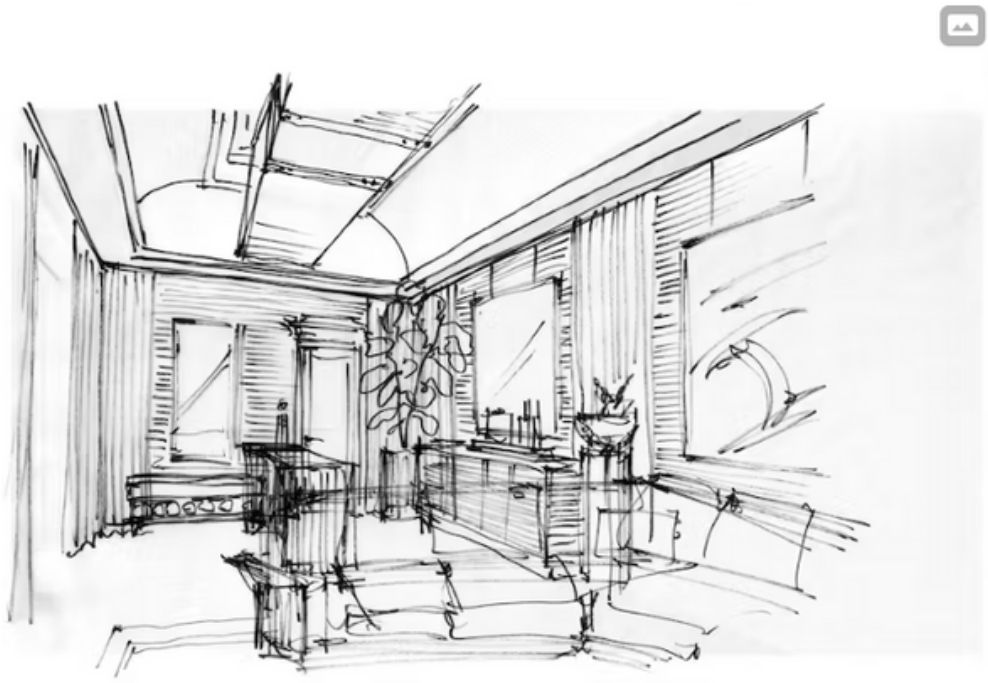
AnnMarie Martin

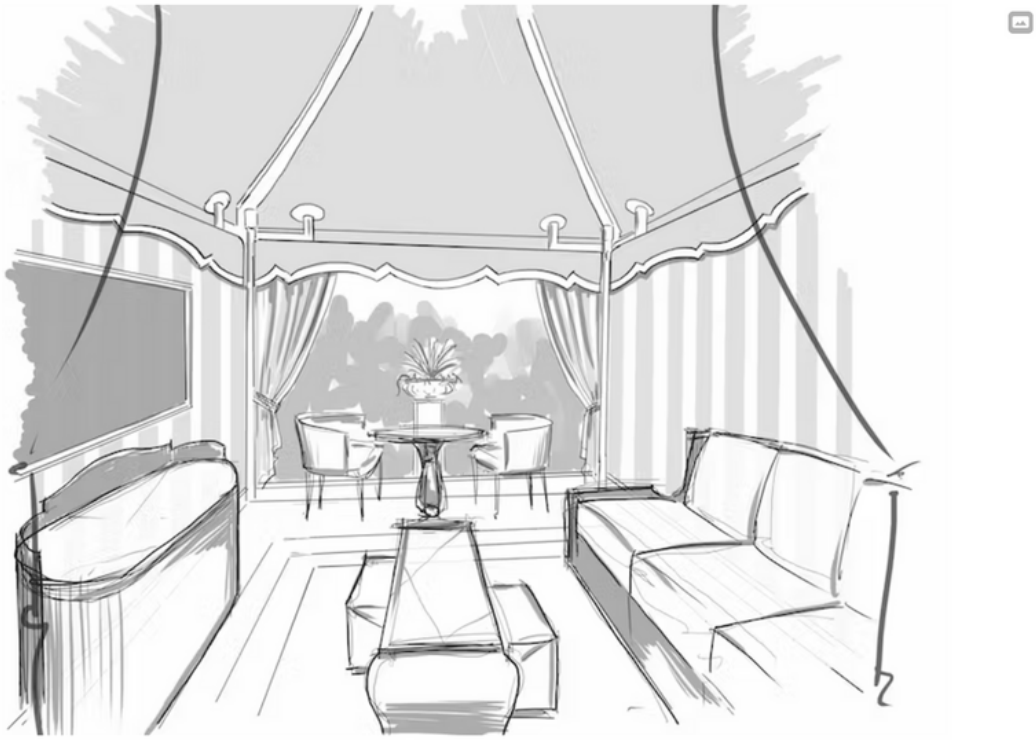
Dec. 6, 2023 1

Here's a little sneak of what's to come in 2024: the Photo Essay column. Here we'll feature a beautiful array of pictures, art, sketches that will effortlessly tell a story all their own with minimal wording needed to guide you.

Here, we're featuring the hand drawings of legendary minds like Roger Thomas to up and coming influencers like Chanel Dehond, global director of HLW's brandx (the firm's wayfinding, signage and branding experience team) and Rachel Robinson, architect and founder of the design offices of durodeco.

Our hope is that these will make their way onto your vision boards across the country. If you do pin them up, send us a shot of it. We'd love to feature it on our social media pages!



Woogmaster Studio


These sketches are the work of Alex Woogmaster for his namesake firm. They feature various resort pool complexes as the firm specializes in luxury hospitality and residential projects.